This image is a black and white print of a transparency; it was made by Dallas police investigators while they were collecting evidence among Lee Harvey Oswald's home and possessions after the assassination of President Kennedy. The album page shows four photographs arranged on a page. The pictures were taken in Russia between 1961 and 1962. The pictures show Oswald and his wife together on a rocky shore and also on a train leaving Minsk. One image is of Oswald alone on some steps. The fourth image shows a man, Pavel Golovachev, standing in front of a Soviet satellite.
